

Open Call for EAU Guidelines Sexual Reproductive Health Chair Position

Location: Virtual

Reports To: EAU Guidelines office Chair

Date: 8 May 2026

The EAU Guidelines Office (EAU GO):

The Guidelines Office is responsible for all aspects of EAU Guidelines development including: the effective functioning of the individual Guideline Panels; internal and external multidisciplinary collaborations with other EAU Offices and associated medical and patient organisations; and all guidelines associated activities e.g. guidelines dissemination and social media, web-based guidelines material, EAU Guidelines app, associated projects e.g., IMAGINE, PIONEER and OPTIMA etc.

The aim of the EAU Guidelines is to assist practicing clinicians in making informed decisions, taking the highest quality scientific evidence and their patient's personal circumstances, values and preferences into account.

The development of the EAU Guidelines is supported by a dedicated Guidelines Office Methods Committee, Dissemination Committee and Associates Committee. The Methods Committee is responsible for the development and implementation of methodological standards across all EAU Guidelines and the methodological training of all Guidelines Office members. The Dissemination Committee is responsible for promoting the dissemination of the EAU Guidelines through discussion and feedback from guidelines users. The Associates Committee oversees the Guidelines Office Associates programme aimed at training young urologist in Guidelines methodology under the mentorship of experienced full Panel members.

The EAU Guidelines Office Board oversees and supports all EAU Guidelines Committees and facilitates all aspects of guidelines development, through the active promotion of continuous quality improvement, establishing priorities for the strategic development of the EAU Guidelines Office.

The aims of the EAU are:

- to act as the representative body for European urologists and facilitate the continued development of urology and all its subspecialties;
- to foster the highest standards of urological care throughout Europe;
- to encourage urological research and enable the broadcasting of its results;
- to promote contributions to the medical and scientific literature by its members;
- to promote European urological achievements worldwide;
- to establish standards for training and European urological practice;
- to contribute to the determination of European urological health care policies;
- to disseminate high quality urological information to patients and public
- To promote multidisciplinary urological care

This is what you will do:

The Sexual Reproductive Health (SRH) Chair is an essential part of the SRH Guideline team within the EAU Guideline Office. The individual in this role is a proactive community builder, who builds virtual networks of contributors involved in the common objective of developing an evidence-based guideline focused on SRH.

The EAU guidelines office currently produces 19 individual guidelines. Each is updated every 1-3 years depending upon the rate of development in that area. The guideline on SRH updates annually with section rotation.

The individual in this role will thrive in a purpose-driven, fast-paced environment as the EAU GO is poised to introduce a significant number of new concepts in the coming years. Generating excitement and leveraging upon the collective experience and intelligence around the topic will support and advance the care of SRH patients.

The chair shall serve a four-year term, once renewable. There will be an initial review of progress after the first year.

You will be responsible for:

Position Description. The chair will:

- Provide leadership and co-ordination of the contributions to the EAU guidelines on SRH, including overall responsibility for the guideline's manuscript.
- Convene and preside over the meeting of the EAU Guidelines panel on SRH.
- ensure alignment with GO strategies and policies as well as contribute to the implementation of the of the EAU GO strategic vision.
- Adhere to and implement the agreed production methodology (responsible for the evidence base and literature identification);
- Ensure effective communication and team working relationships both between members of the guideline panel and with the EAU GO staff.
- Review and assess the functioning of panel members in conjunction with the GO staff and intervene when required.
- Generate content that spreads best practices, acknowledges contributors and that triggers conversations to exchange ideas and produce improvement in practice across the field of SRH.
- Comply with the EAU GO's disclosure and conflict of interest policy, ensuring that Conflicts of interest (COIs) are reported for all members of the panel appropriately and in a timely manner as well as ensure that reporting of COIs are recognised.
- Promote sharing at various forums to drive connections and foster a community around SRH.
- Promote the EAU guidelines on SRH via social media with the support of the dissemination committee.
- Look to collaborate with other EAU guideline panels and external groups on topics of mutual interest.
- Work with other EAU guidelines Chairs to protect the EAU GO brand.
- Contribute to the implementation of the of the EAU GO strategic vision.
- Maintain confidentiality.

Expectations

- Will lead 1-2 in-person guidelines meetings per year as well as online meetings as required.
- Will attend 2 meetings with the EAU board per year (1 face-to-face and 1 virtual).
- Will respond promptly to correspondence from EAU GO and the central office staff.

- Will deliver guidelines text on time and in the format described by the EAU GO

The incumbent may be asked to perform other function-related activities in addition to the above-mentioned responsibilities as reasonably required by EAU GO.

You will need to have:

- Recognised leadership in the field.
- Been appointed as a consultant with an active clinical practice.
- Active EAU membership and European practicing Urologist.
- Fluency in English (both oral and written) as the official language of the association is English.
- Demonstrated project management skills with the ability to manage multiple projects simultaneously.
- Effective communication skills with ability to enthuse others.
- Previous experience of guidelines development / methodology.
- Experience developing and publishing systematic reviews.
- Embraced EAU Culture and Values.

We would prefer for you to have:

- Prior experience in chairing national or international projects.
- Experience with EAU guidelines.
- Familiarity with Cochrane methodology.

Application

Individuals wishing to apply must submit a Curriculum Vitae along with a personal Statement of Interest indicating their understanding of the position and a project idea for the panel. Furthermore, a completed non-disclosure and conflict of interest form.

Please note that a person may not have a significant conflict as determined by the GO Board during his/her tenure as chair. These documents should be forwarded to the EAU GO chair Prof. Maria Ribal at guidelinesapplications@uroweb.org by 8th May 2026.